

How Methamphetamines Affect the Workplace

BWC offers a new methamphetamines half-day class to safety and health professionals, human resource managers; anyone who comes in contact with large amounts of refuse; or any personnel that sells or works with materials that can be improvised to manufacture methamphetamines such as law enforcement, firefighters, and other first responders.

What you will learn:

- What methamphetamines are;
- Effects of methamphetamines;
- Regional awareness of methamphetamine use and production;
- Recognition of improvised chemical labs and equipment for methamphetamine production in the workplace;
- Available drug treatment and intervention programs;
- Hazards associated with production;
- Safety protocols to limit exposure; and
- Best practices for site removal of hazardous waste.
